Bible

I know significant events and themes of the Bible, and feel that I can navigate its pages and interpret it with others.

First Steps

Purchase a readable Bible. Choose a translation like NIV or NRSV that has good footnotes, or find a life application version. Then, find a reading plan that is simple and easy to follow. Take the course Bible Stuff to help learn how to read and understand it.

Next Steps

The best way to experience Bible study is to engage in it with others. Take one of the many studies offered each semester or summer. Consider joining with a breakfast or other group from the church that already meets to study.

The Disciple Bible studies are a great way to gain perspective on the Bible. Begin with Disciple I, a 28-week survey of the major themes and events of the Bible. Then consider the other Disciple courses for greater depth of study.
